

WILLIAM BAIRD

William Baird, second son of John and Elizabeth Marshall Baird, was born November 3, 1849 in Rutherglen, Lanarkshire, Scotland and moved with his parents at the age of six to Greenock. There he attended school and worked in a tailor shop for four years. Because of low wages he pawned his watch to get funds for a trip to Glasgow where he found employment for 14 shillings or about $3.50 a week. He was working here when his parents contacted him that they were sailing to America to be with the Saints in Utah. He met them in Liverpool, and they sailed to Castle Garden, N. Y., and because of food rationing, were hungry all the way. William and his brother Robert came across the plains in separate companies from their parents, as they obtained employment driving teams and wagons. They met their families in the old Tithing Yard in Salt Lake, thinking they had been killed on the plains.

On February 5, 1880, William married Janet Murdoch, who had been born Oct. 18, 1855. They were the parents of nine children: John, born March 15, 1881; Jessie Lennox, born Aug. 15, 1882; William Murdoch, born Oct. 6, 1884; Elizabeth Marshall, born March 25, 1887; Ernest Wallace, born April 17, 1889; James Alexander, born Feb. 26, 1891; David, born Dec. 23, 1892; Bruce, born April 6, 1896 and Margaret born Sept. 20, 1898 and died a month later. 1102
